About me

I'm a native Houstonian with a background in Literature. This is my fourth year teaching at Rogers, and I feel very fortunate to serve such a supportive community.

As a bookworm, I love teaching English. I'm passionate about encouraging students to use their voice, and language arts skills are crucial for this. My goal this year is to aid critical thinking, creative expression, and foster a lifelong love of reading and writing.

I believe the knowledge students gain in ELA is essential regardless of their chosen path. I look forward to preparing students for high school and beyond.
