National Portfolio Day & Third Coast Week

Every year the National Portfolio Day Association, which consists of accredited colleges of art and design, has a National Portfolio Day in the area. Over 30 prestigious art schools and colleges will be represented at this event, and hundreds of students from all over Texas and several surrounding states will be in attendance to have their portfolios reviewed and to gather information about these schools. We definitely encourage our students (especially juniors and seniors) to attend. This year it will not take place due to the Coronavirus.

In addition to this great opportunity, Kinder HSPVA traditionally invites representatives from some of the schools that are more desired by our students to our "mini" portfolio days (Third Coast Days), during school on the Wednesday, Thursday and Friday prior to the Saturday main event. Many of our students create installations, site specific and/or interactive pieces and/or exceptionally large, heavy and/or delicate works that are virtually impossible to transport or do justice to through slides or photographs. By having the "mini" event at Kinder HSPVA, our 70+ juniors and seniors have exclusive access to these representatives for a limited period of time. The representatives who attend our "mini" event all seem to agree that it is beneficial and enjoyable and most have raved about it and our students. Students are admitted to many of these schools on the spot, and thousands of dollars in scholarship money is offered as a result of this event. We know our juniors and seniors benefit greatly from this opportunity!

We absolutely need and expect 100% participation from all of our junior and senior students. We cannot stress too strongly how important it is for the students to participate in this event and for parents to support it. We ask parents to support us by encouraging their student to prepare and if possible by helping the Art Guild in their preparations to host the representatives. These efforts will be appreciated!
