Needs related to student achievement data

For the 2023-2024 school year, Madison High School received a "C" rating based on the TEA accountability system. This is growth compared to 2022-2023 school year when Madison was rated an "F" campus. During the 2023-2024 school year, we started with 1673 students. Of those students, approximately 39% are emergent bilinguals, and 74% are at-risk. These percentages are similar to those in 2022-2023 where we had 35% emergent bilinguals, and 73% are at-risk   The graduating class of 2024, produced 88% of the seniors to be college and career ready and received a CCMR point for the school. In 2022-2023, 60% of the students earned a CCMR point.

Our goal for the 2024-2025 school year is to increase all student achievement specifically in Math and Reading with a special focus on our emergent bilingual students, increase the number of graduating seniors who are college and career ready, and increase our daily attendance averages. We will focus on building teacher capacity and improving tier 1 instruction.

Despite the overall growth in our state accountability data, there are still gaps in student achievement. Specifically, we see gaps in our Special Education population. As stated above, we currently serve 1585 students, out of which 129 receive special education support (8%).

Writing is also an area of focus for 2024-2025. We want to prepare our students to not only be successful on state assessment but also to prepare them for college. Students must be able to write proficiently to get accepted into a university. In 2022-2023, 62% of our ELA 1 students scored between 0 and 2 points out of a total of 10 points. It actually worsened in 2023-2024 when 73% of our ELA 1 students scored between 0 and 2 points out of 10 points. Not only was EOC writing a concern, there is also a concern regarding our TELPAS writing data. In 2022- 2023, 36% of our EB students scored advanced high. We did see an improvement in 2023-2024, 53% of our students scored advanced high on the writing portion of TELPAS.

Needs related to improving the quality of instruction

- During the 2023-2024 school year, James Madison High School underwent four Independent Review Team (IRT) instructional walks, with scores of 5.36, 7, 11.8, and 10.6, respectively. These results demonstrate consistent growth in Tier 1 instruction throughout the year. However, as we enter the 2024-2025 school year, we face the challenge of integrating 37 new teachers into our staff of 128, which includes teachers, apprentices, and learning coaches. This presents a critical need to build instructional capacity in both new and returning staff members to ensure continued growth and success.

- Collaborative PLCs: Design the master schedule to prioritize common planning time for both grade-level and department/content professional development and collaboration. Establish systems to enhance support for students receiving 504, special education, EB, and dyslexia services. Implement differentiated support structures for teachers based on their needs, whether it's internalizing lesson plans or developing assessments. Use data to inform and drive instructional decisions.
- Strengthening Tier 1 Instruction: Elevate reading and math instruction by unpacking the TEKS and refining both the demonstration of learning and curriculum slide decks.
- Closing Learning Gaps: Address learning gaps in special populations (EBs, Special Education, Dyslexia, and 504) by integrating targeted strategies and designated supports into instructional planning and delivery.
- Enhancing Lesson Internalization: Improve the process of lesson internalization to elevate the quality of Tier 1 instructional delivery.
- Building Teacher Capacity: Identify skills gaps through student data analysis to enhance teacher effectiveness and close learning gaps during daily small-group interventions.

System Evaluation (philosophy, processes, implementation, capacity)
- Build instructional leadership capacity amongst the administration team and teacher leader groups.
- Fine tune the PLC system, weekly planning guidelines, and exemplar expectations.
- Build teacher leadership density through peer to peer observations, deprivatizing instructional practices, and utilizing the spot form during demos and classroom walkthroughs.
